MindIQ partners with Global Knowledge and delivers a record year in 2000

MindIQ Corporation, an Authorized Independent Compaq Training Partner, forms partnership with Global Knowledge.

Norcross, GA, March 1, 2001: MindIQ, formerly Bernstein & Associates and an Authorized Independent Compaq Training Partner, entered into a partnership agreement with Global Knowledge to deliver Compaq training on OpenVMS™ and Tru64 UNIX™ to Global's customers in North America. The partnership allows MindIQ to greatly expand its market share as a leader in Compaq training while allowing Global to free up certain resources and pursue more strategic businesses.

"We have been delivering Compaq/DEC training since 1986. This is a natural evolution of our growth", said Louis H. Bernstein, CEO. "We are very pleased to be working with Global. The combination of their background as the original Digital Educational Services group along with Compaq's certification and training materials, and MindIQ's years of experience, spells a winning combination for the Compaq customer", Bernstein said.

The OpenVMS, and Tru64 UNIX classes are being offered in six cities with over 200 classes to choose from. To register for any of the classes or to schedule a dedicated on-site class, customers can call (800) 511-5299 or visit www.mindiq.com.

MindIQ has also released its 2000 financial results. For the year ending December 31, 2000, revenues increased 88% while net income increased to 9.4% of sales. "We are very pleased with our results", said Ken Murdock, Chief Operating Officer. "Most importantly it is a good indication that our plan is working. The addition of the Global's business should have our company operating at an even higher level than we had imagined." For the first two months of 2001 MindIQ's revenues increased 81% and net income increased 137% over the same period last year. "We are happy see that our business model has been validated and proven sustainable, even with a downturn in the economy”, adds Louis Bernstein.
